BANGKOK LINGO TOMORROW'S FINALLY HERE

Tomorrow's Finally Here is the second long play album from the energetic jazz band Bangkok Lingo. The quintet's programme brims with high-octane rhythmic drive and intense solos, as well as laid-back grooves and delightful melodies, and they have established themselves as a sought-after act on the Norwegian live scene. Tomorrow's Finally Here was inspired by both legendary 60s jazz, swing and world music, all performed with excellence and joy.

MEET THE ARTIST

Bangkok Lingo is an exciting new jazz quintet featuring five young musicians from the Oslo scene. The quintet plays energetic and vibrant music highly influenced by jazz from the sixties and the simmering free jazz-scene in Europe. Inspired by exotic music from other parts of the world, their music mixes swing, free jazz and catchy melodies in a raw and unfiltered landscape.

PRESS QUOTES

'Both horn players produce effervescent solos that push and pull the rest of the band directions that feel unexpected but are completely satisfying for the listener.' - Jazzviews, UK on debut album
